About the PROSE Awards

Since 1976, the Association of American Publishers Awards for Professional and Scholarly Excellence [PROSE Awards] have honored the very best scholarly works published in a given year. America has long been the leader in scholarly research and innovation and much of this success is due to the private investment by scholarly publishers. The PROSE Awards recognize publishers who produce books, journals, and digital products of extraordinary merit that make a significant contribution to a field of study.

For 2019, a panel of 18 judges will review entries for overall excellence in professional and scholarly publishing in 47 subject categories.

Winners from each subject category will go on to compete in one of five areas of excellence:

- Biological and Life Sciences
- Humanities
- Physical Sciences & Mathematics
- Reference Works
- Social Sciences

The winners in each of the five areas of excellence will then compete for the R.R. Hawkins Award, the ultimate winner of a given year's PROSE Award competition.

New for 2019

This year, for the first time, judges will select finalists for each of the 47 subject categories prior to the awards luncheon. Finalists will be publicly announced in January 2019 and will be formally recognized as PROSE Awards Finalists – an official designation that marketers may use in their promotional materials.

As is the tradition, AAP will reveal and recognize winners for each of the 47 subject categories during a luncheon at the annual AAP Conference for Professional and Scholarly Publishing. AAP will provide all winners and finalists with respective designations and seals, which may be used publicly on the awarded works in promotional materials..

The entry fee for the 2019 PROSE Awards is $90.00 per entry.

Eligibility

Publishers submitting entries must be a member of one (or more) of the following organizations: Association of American Publishers (AAP) and/or Association of University Presses (AUPresses). All entries must be published in English.

Types of Entries:

Books (print, eBooks, and audiobooks)

Only books with a 2018 copyright are eligible for the 2019 PROSE Awards

- Books published in late 2017 with a 2018 copyright are eligible.
- Multivolume/multiyear can be judged by individual volume (copyright 2018) or as a complete multivolume work in the publication year of the last volume. Publisher should note preference when submitting entry.
- Galleys and advance reader copies of books with a 2018 copyright may be submitted for this year's competition if the book will be published after the online submission deadline.
- English language literary translations of important works (fiction, poetry, drama) are eligible if the translation has a 2018 copyright.

The following are NOT eligible for the 2019 PROSE Award

- Books published in late 2018 with a 2019 copyright are not eligible this year.
- New editions of books unless substantially different in format, content, or significant length of time has gone by between editions (10+ years). Please explain what makes your entry a new edition.
- Books previously published by another organization.
- English language versions of textbooks or scholarly books where direct or literal translation is used are not eligible.

Journals

Journals (print and/or digital) must have launched in 2014 or later and have been published for a minimum of one calendar year before submitting for a “Best New Journal” PROSE award. Test or pre-launch journal issues are not eligible for this competition. Existing journals relaunched under a new title/publisher must be significantly expanded and/or refocused from their prior incarnation to be considered for “Best New Journal.”

The “Innovation in Journal Publishing” awards are open to new and existing journals with innovative approaches to the handling or presentation of journal content throughout the publication process.

Digital/eProducts

Digital/eProducts (including platforms and enhanced e-book formats) must have launched in 2018.

The online entry system will open on Tuesday, October 2, 2018 and will close at midnight on Friday, November 9, 2018. (See instructions for submitting entries below.)

Submission Process

All PROSE entries must be submitted online at www.proseawards.com by November 9, 2018.

Publishers are encouraged to pay for their entries online using a credit card. All payments must be received by November 9, 2018 for entries to be eligible.

The online entry system tracks each entry by the name and email address of the submitting person. You may submit one payment to cover all entries submitted with your email address once you confirm that you submitted all entries. [Go to Make Payment]

Online Entry Form Guidelines

Please complete each entry form in one session. (If you close your browser without completing the entry form, any text you have input will be lost and you will need to restart.)

- We recommend that you create a text file for your entry in either Word or Excel and then cut and paste relevant information into the online form.
- The online entry system tracks entries by the name and email address of the submitting person. To pay for all your entries at one time, use the same email address for each entry.

Information needed to complete the entry form:

1. Name and contact information for person submitting entry
2. Entry type, subject category, and URL (if available)
3. Entry title and author or editor
4. Answers to the following (will appear in the form once you click on type of entry):
 - a. What makes the entry distinctive and innovative?
 - b. What contribution does the entry make to the field or body of knowledge?
 - c. Why was the title chosen for publication by your press?
5. Additional explanatory information about the entry. This can include:
 - a. Links to published articles and/or reviews
 - b. Reader reviews (paste into field)
 - c. Endorsements (paste into field)
6. Cover art (JPEG or PNG only)
 - a. These images ensure the correct entry form accompanies the book, journal, or eProduct submitted
 - b. Cover art is used in promotional materials about the PROSE Awards
7. Credit card payment [once all entries are submitted]
 - a. The online system will calculate a total when you go to the "Make a Payment Form"
 - b. If you need a payment receipt, please email: proseawards@publishers.org
8. Directions for shipping review copies is included below

Notification of Category Finalists and Winners

Finalists will be notified via email in January 2019 prior to being promoted via AAP's social channels.

Subject category winners, excellence award winners, and the R.R. Hawkins are announced via AAP's social media channels during the PROSE Award luncheon. A press release listing all winners is issued after the luncheon and the winners will be posted to www.proseawards.com.

2019 PROSE Awards: Frequently Asked Questions:

Submission Process

Can authors submit their own book for a PROSE Award?

No, only publishers can submit an entry for consideration. Authors are encouraged to contact their editors/publishers to determine if their book will be submitted for this year's competition.

How do I check my organization's membership status?

Please check the AAP website: publishers.org or the AUPresses website: aupresses.org for their respective member lists.

Is there a limit to how many books a publisher can submit?

No, publishers may submit as many books as they like.

Can a publisher submit a book in multiple categories?

Yes, provided there is an entry form and payment for each of the categories.

A book was published after last year's PROSE Award entry deadline – can it be submitted this year?

Only books with a 2018 copyright are eligible for the 2019 PROSE Awards. If a book was published in late 2017, but has a copyright of 2018, you may enter it into the 2019 competition.

My book will be published after the entry deadline – can I submit a galley or advance reader's copy?

Yes, you may submit a galley or advance reader copy if the book has a 2018 copyright.

What if I am not sure which category fits best?

Submit in the category that best aligns with where you expect to find the book in a library or bookstore. On occasion, a judge may read an entry form or book and determine it is better suited to a different category. The judge will then forward that entry onto the appropriate judge for review.

Where do I include press articles, reviews, endorsements or other supporting information?

Please include links to press coverage and reviews in the "Additional Explanatory Information" section of the entry form. Supporting quotes or endorsements can be copied and pasted into this section. Please do not include dust cover copy.

Sending Review Copies:

How many copies of books/products do I need to send?

Type of Entry	Number of Copies Required
Books, textbooks or single volume reference	Submit 2 copies
Multivolume reference	Submit 1 full set or 3 volumes from a broken set
Journals (print)	Submit 3 copies
Digital eProducts, Online Journals	Submit 3 flash drives or 3 digital access codes

Do I need to include a cover sheet, inventory list, or copy of the entry form with my entries?

No, not unless you are sending a generic flash drive. We recommend clearly marking flash drives with product name and category.

For books sent from wholesalers/third parties, please ensure Attention: PROSE Awards is included on the shipping label.

What is the shipping address for PROSE Award submissions?

Association of American Publishers (AAP)

Attention: PROSE Awards

455 Massachusetts Avenue NW Suite 700

Washington, DC 20001-2777

Phone: 202-347-3375

Will you let me know when AAP receives my books/journals/eProducts?

Given the volume of entries we cannot confirm receipt. We will contact you if there is an entry form without a corresponding book/journal/flash drive or if we receive a book/journal/flash drive without an entry form.

What happens to the entries after the competition?

Entries in good condition are donated to college and university libraries, including Medgar Evers College Library (NYU), after the competition.
